

Special Focus: Historical Narratives and Race Relations with Implications for African American Males and Faculty in Education

Weeding Out v. Building Up: Why Justice Scalia was Wrong about Black Scientists (Editor's Commentary).....	517
Ivory A. Toldson
“A Narrative to the Colored Children in America”: Lelia Amos Pendleton, African American History Textbooks, and Challenging Personhood.....	519
LaGarrett J. King
Bending the Academic Color Line: Allison Davis, the University of Chicago, and American Race Relations, 1941-1948.....	534
David A. Varel
After-School Interests, Achievement Goal Orientation, and Peers in a Predominantly African American School.....	547
James M. Ford Jr., Martin H. Jones, and Joyce M. Alexander
Black Men’s Perceptions of Sense of Belonging with Faculty Members in Community Colleges.....	564
Christopher B. Newman, J. Luke Wood, and Frank Harris III
The Price Elasticity of Freshman Enrollment Demand at a Historically Black College for Males: Implications for the Design of Tuition and Financial Aid Pricing Schemes that Maximize Black Male College Access.....	578
Gregory Price and Willis Sheftall
To Stay or To Go: A Comparison of Factors Influential in the Decisions of African American Faculty to Remain at Two Elite Southern Research Universities.....	593
David J. Siegel, T. Gregory Barrett, and Theophus H. Smith
Book/Media Reviews
Mary McLeod Bethune: Building a Better World, Essays and Selected Documents , edited by Audrey Thomas McCluskey and Elaine M. Smith.....	607
(Ashley N. Robertson)
Raised Up Down Yonder: Growing up Black in Rural Alabama , by Angela McMillan Howell.....	609
(Ramon B. Goings and Larry J. Walker)
The New Jim Crow: Mass Incarceration in the Age of Colorblindness , by Michelle Alexander.....	611
(Deborah King McEwan)	